IS HURLED THROUGH ROOF

When He Attempts to Crank His Machine, Ignition Throwing a Spark Into Powder — Donavaskey Badly Cut And Bruised

Pittsburgh, Oct. 20.—A box of powder placed by an enemy under the hood of his automobile resulted in the serious injury today of Albert Donavaskey, a coal miner of Newfield, near North Bessemer. The suspected man is being sought.

Donavaskey was hurled through the roof of the garage when he attempted to crank his automobile, the ignition throwing a spark into the powder. Donavaskey was badly cut and bruised and the automobile and garage blown to pieces by the explosion.

TURKS IMPRISON 3,000 GREEKS

Constantinople, Oct. 20—At the point of the bayonet, routing their victims from bed. Turkish police have taken matters of exchange of populations with Greece into their own hands and marched some 3,000 Greeks to imprisonment in the historic Fortress of the Seven Towers.

The Greeks, who were hustled off without being permitted to bring along belongings, included many who were not to be exchanged but their protests fell upon deaf ears.

A child suffering from smallpox was dragged off to the fortress, old men and women were prodded along the road by armed convoys, and in one instance a baker's boy, his hands and apron still white with flour, was hurried off to the prison.

The Greek population of Constantinople is terror-stricken as a result of the action of the police. The latter claim the Greeks seized belong to a category slated for exchange, and that they have delayed too long after obtaining passports. Many of the prisoners had no passports however.

Strong protests have been made to the mixed allied commission which has charge of the transfer of Greeks to Greece in return for Turks to Turkey, but the commission has been unable to check the arrests.

Members Of Boards Are Asked To Come

Every board of health, no matter how small the community, has five official members and a health officer, who can give 100 percent in service and enthusiasm. Every member of such board, wherever located, is asked to attend the meeting in the Municipal building here tomorrow beginning at 10 a. m.

Washington county has taken the initial steps in organizing a County Association of Health boards; sixty-[illegible] counties in the state will be asked to follow the example set forth by this county. The association, by this meeting tomorrow, declares by its action to show what can be done by hearty cooperation. The association trusts that each and every one will find some person with a seven-passenger car, interest him and see that the machine is filled and headed for this borough tomorrow morning.

It is the desire of the association to show the health department at Harrisburg that it appreciates its efforts for the betterment of health conservation, and that locally, or county applied, it is ready to do its part to make the county a healthful and safe place in which to live.

Pilots Complain That Bridges Poorly Lighted On Monongahela River

Pilots on the Monongahela river complain of the lack of lights on the Belle Vernon, Webster and Lake Erie bridges, the latter at Homestead.

The proper lights, which should be displayed on all bridges during dark and foggy mornings and nights, are a great help to river pilots, and their absence endangers navigation to a great extent.

Complaints by river men in these conditions have been filed with the United States Federal engineers at Pittsburgh, and Major E. L. Daily in charge has ordered the new United State lighthouse tender, Green Briar, which is now on her ay to Pittsburgh, to correct this matter as soon as it arrives in port.

The steamer Green Briar, which is on her maiden trip to headquarters of the Monongahela river, has taken the place of the Goldenrod, which was recently condemned as unserviceable and will be wrecked.

The Green Briar will make the regular semi-annual tours, replacing, repairing, and supplying all the beacon lights on the river.

MAN BEING SOUGHT WHO THREW LICENSE PLATES AWAY

The police department of the city of Monongahela is investigating to determine the identity of a presumed colored man who Saturday night, drove into ark avenue in that city, stopped near the home of Ernest Bartolletti, and with a pair of wire clippers cut the front and rear end license plates from a touring car and threw them into the yard of Bartolleltti.

A short time later the man drove out Park avenue at a fast rate of speed. Witnesses stated that the man was colored. Bartolletti notified the police. The plates were Pennsylvania license No. 843-752. The chief of police of Monongahela has discovered that the license number was issued to William Jenkins of that the license number was issued to Library.

DOINGS OF THE SHENANDOAH

San Francisco. Oct. 20—The U. S. naval dirigible Shenandoah expected to arrive over San Francisco between 7 and 8 a. m. today on her return trip to Lakehurst, according to a message received here by the radio corporation of America from the Sherandoah.

The message received at 10 o'clock last night did not give the dirigible's location. Shortly after five p. m. she passed over Astoria, Oregon, making an estimated speed of 50 miles an hour. The dirigible left her mooring mast at Camp Lewis, the western objective of her cross-country trip, at 12:10 p. m.

VICTOR JUNIOR BOYS' CLUB IS A NEW ONE

Recently one of the local stores organized a boys' club inviting boys of from 6 to 16 years to join without expense of any kind since there were no dues or initiation fees.

The club is known as the "Victor Junior Boys" Club" and the avowed purpose of those in back of the organization is to build up in the boys worthy, manly characters and to provide for them healthy and clean recreation.

The rules and by-laws of the club, to which each boy subscribes upon joining, set forth a creed which is well calculated to make the youngsters understand that an upright conduct is something of which to be proud.

There is nothing of the "goody-goody" type about the club rules for which most healthy boys have an aversion and that, perhaps, explains the rapidly increasing membership. That and the hearty co-operation of the parents, who were quick to appreciate the advantages of having their boys members of such an organization.

The Victor Junior Boys' Club has been quietly and steadily forging ahead and, with the preliminary details of organization straightened out, one of the first activities of the [illegible] is a theatre party, free, of course, to all members.

MEDIATION EFFORTS IN THE TONG WAR HAVE ALL FAILED

New York, Oct. 20—All efforts at mediation in the tong war in the east have failed, and the next step must be federal intervention and deportation of those responsible for continuation of the murderous feud, Inspector Alfred W. Brough, of the Chinese bureau of the immigration service declared today.

With word of murder of a Chinese in Detroit the latest victim of rivalry between the On Leong and Hip Sing tongs, there was fresh activity by police and detectives here to prevent an outbreak of vengeance.

Leaders of the On Leongs refused to meet those of the Hip Sings in a peace parley this week end. As a result Inspetor Brough announed he will exert all his influence to bring deportation into play to end the strife.

Any Chinese found carrying weapons illegally will be made liable to deportation as a "dangerous radical," he said, and it may be possible even to resort to wholesale deportations of tong leaders.

Dr. Sze Chinese minister to Washington sailed for Europe to attend a narcotic conference at Geneva, expressing fears that the tong war in the east was far from over The peace parley signed at Washington affected only the district of Columbia, he explained.

It developed today that the tong war has a Canadian angle, and an investigation has been begun at Ottawa. Reports are that it was a "squeal" in connection with the smuggling of Chinese across the Sanadian border into the United States that led to the first killing in the area of [illegible] the feud.

CHARLEROI HI'S FIGHTING MACHINE DEFEATS MONESSEN 14 TOO

Captain O'Brien, Crabb, Crytzer And Paterline Starred-DeHaint Is Seriously Injured In Third Quarter

For the second time in the last three seasons Charleroi High School defeated Monessen High at Page Field, Monessen, on Saturday afternoon by the score 14-0.

To an extent the victory was costly to Charleroi, for in the third period DeHaint was badly injured and it is said today that the star center may be out of the game for the balance of the season.

The game was really without thrills, the only run that caused a stir among the large throng was a 30-yard run by Captain O'Brien of Charleroi, who played a brilliant game throughout. Charleroi after scoring two touchdowns were under orders to play it safe. Bigger games are coming and Coach Stepanian was content with victory.

Monessen played a good defensive game during the second half, but marred their offensive play by continual fumbles most of which were recovered by Charleroi.

The line play of Charleroi was good and bad but it paved the way for Charleroi's victory by close following of the ball. Charleroi registered ten first downs to four for Monessen, two of which were made on off-side penalties. In punting Crabb was ahead of his opponent.

Monessen presented nothing new in their play except a few new faces. The generalship was bad at times. Only once did their team get as far as the 30-yard line which shows that they were never dangerous. Their quarterback seemed content to hit the line for three downs and punt and if punts were exchanged Monessen generally lost ground.

Charleroi scored in the first period when Anthony recovered a bad pass from Monessen's center. On a double pass Crabb gained 20 yards. Here Monessen's line fought hard for it took four downs before Paterline rammed center for a touchdown. Crabb added the extra point after the touchdown with a placement kick. In the second quarter it took Charleroi just three minutes to score their second touchdown. Monessen fumbled on their own 24-yard line and Morgan recovered for Charleroi. A series of off-tackle plays, reverse plays, and an occasional kick carried the ball to the three yard line where Crytzer took it over. Crabb again added the extra point with a placement kick. At the end of the quarter Charleroi had the ball on Monessen's 15 yard line after a pretty run by O'Brien of 30 yards. In the third quarter Crabb missed a drop kick standing on the 49-yard line by a narrow margin.

Captain O'Brien and Crabb did good work and were ably assisted by Crytzer and Paterline. On the line DeHainent until injured played well, as did Johns and Morgan. For Monessen, Salotta, Kuzina and Weinstone played well.

The line-up:

Charleroi		Monessen
Anthony	LF	Winestoni
Samononi	LT	Franks
Johns		Green
DeHaint	C	Maykovitch
Morgan	RG	Venneri
Cantoni	RT	Kouseman
Sheppard	RE	Bindy
O'Brien	Q	Kent
Crabb	LH	Salotti
Crytzer	RH	Trisch
Paterlin	FB	Jasmo

Touchdowns—Paterline and Crytzer.

Score by periods — Charleroi 7-7. Monessen 0-0.

Substitutions: Charleroi— Shigets, Feehan, Chacko, Torberi, McKay. Monessen—Checal, Manly, Sautia.

Officials—Referee, Story; Umpire, Mates; Linesman, Korb.

Time of quarters, 12 minutes.

Cuddy DeMarco Fights Art Simms At Canton, O. Tonight, In Main Bout

SPORT WRITER SAYS CUDDY WILL HAVE TO WIN SOME BOUTS

Ray Coll, writing for the Pittsburgh Gazette Times today has a lot to say about Cuddy DeMarco. In the opening of his story he says Cuddy is one of three of the leading fighters in this section and then closes by saying that the local boy will have to make a win or two before he will be a drawing card.

When Cuddy gets through with Art Simms tonight at Canton, Ohio, perhaps Mr. Coll will have a different writer's story:

If Motor Square Garden is to have a successful run in boxing this winter a crop of new talent must be imported by Matchmaker Johnny McGarvey. While local fandom has been wont to demand local faces in the ring it must educate itself to new faces this winter or else do without boxing. This, because the game has reached a crisis here. Only three men, Greb, DeMarco and Zivic remain as local topnotchers. It is a certainty that the three annot be depended upon to furnish half of the sketch in each and every show to be staged at the East End emporium.

For instance: McGarvey plans to use DeMarco in his opening show. Pep O'Brien will likely be his opponent. Pep holds a recent decision over Cuddy, having gained it in McKeesport in a slashing encounter. Should Pep be successful in repeating his victory or in gaining an even break he will naturally become a good card here. McGarvey may then induce him to meet some good boy like Joe Dundee, Baltimore's entry in the lightweight chase. Dundee is a mighty sweet fighter, having a decision over Jack Zivic when the latter was a lightweight. He has also beaten Joe Tiplitz, Johnny Clinton, Ever Hammer, Andy Chaney, Bud Christiano, Mel Coogan and Sailor Friedman, all well-known fighters.

If Dundee can be brought here and should he make a favorable impression he would be another "repeater" for McGarvey to work on. Then there's Sammy Mandell, the Illinois lightweight; Danny Kramer, Philadelphia featherweight; Nate Goldman, Pennsylvania lightweight champ, and Billy Britton, Middle West middleweight who has been stepping along.

In the meantime the aforementioned local talent must be developed out of the prelims. There's Babe Picato of New Castle, Sig Keppen of Beaver Falls, Willie Davies of Charleroi, Kid Carpentier of New Kensington, Johnny Moore of Youngstown, and a host of others from whom may arise a headliner or two before the season ends.

Steubenville will see the boxing season opened tonight when Cuddy DeMarco takes on Art Simms of Canton. Simms' chief claim to fame is a knockout victory over Ted Smith, also of Canton, and who showed here last winter. He is said to pack a wallop and it is the boy with the wallop that has been causing Cuddy trouble of late. Jim Mason, manager of the Charleroi sheik declares, however, that Cuddy is going to change his luck tonight by stopping Alex.

McGarvey says that he has not entirely given up hope of a DeMarco-Zivic match. While Manager Mason will not agree to 140 pounds at 3 o'clock as the weight just now, Johnny says he may later on as Cuddy himself is getting heavier. It's a fact that the time will soon arrive when DeMarco will have extreme difficulty in making 135 pounds.

It is our opinion that the weight is not the main issue in a DeMarco-Zivic clash right now. The fact that Cuddy has suffered three reverses in a row is the paramount objection. Let Cuddy get a couple of wins under his belt and then Manager Mason may feel like taking on the Lawrenceville bearcat.

After a week of the most strenuous training of his career, Cuddy DeMarco finished a workout at the Hill Top Athletic club and left for Canton, Ohio, where he will meet Art Simms, a native of that vicinity in a ten-round bout. Immediately after his battle with Simms, Cuddy will move on to Cleveland, Ohio, where on Wednesday night he will meet Charles O'Connell in main bout of ten rounds. This will be the beginning of a busy season for the local boy for there are a number of bouts carded for him in the near future.

Former Athletes

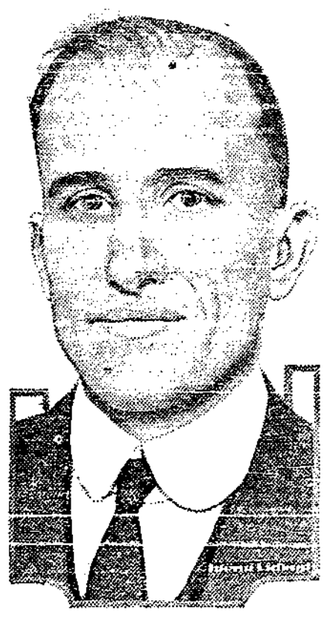
Minister to Bears

University of California has the distinction of being one of the few and, perhaps, the only educational institution in the country which has on its athletic staff two physicians who are as well known on the athletic field as in the realms of medicine.

They are Dr. Boles Rosenthal, one of the football coaches, who is an ex-Minnesota star, and Dr. W. G. Donald, former captain of the California track team and famous as a hurdler.

Donald, on the recommendation of President W. W. Campbell of the University of California, was appointed to the position of associate university physician, whose services, it was announced, would be used primarily "in regard to organized athletics."

Busy Northwestern Coach



With the remembrance of defeat after defeat last year by inferior teams acting as an incentive, 60 stalwart aspirants to football fame and glory are going through the first stages of the acid test at the Northwestern field, where Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite is striving to assemble a machine that will carry the colors of Northwestern university to victory on conference fields.

It pays to advertise in the Mail.

Clifford Nelson, Rockford high school football and basketball player, who was selected as all-state football guard in 1923, will enter Northwestern university. Nelson weighs 210 pounds, it was said, and is more than six feet tall.

Willie Davies And Hugh Manson To End Quarrel At Clarksburg, W. Va.

On Thursday night of this week, Willie Davies of Roscoe and Hughie Manson of Homestead will have their quarrel out at Clarksburg, W. Va. It was planned for these two boys to meet at the Charleroi ball park, but the weather man interfered and the bout had to be called off. Then it was arranged to hold the affair in Homestead but Matchmaker Al Pryel was unable to secure a suitable hall there so the activities have been shifted to Clarksburg, W. Va.

Charleroi will be well represented on this card when Art LeClair of Lock 4 will meet Davie Davies, a brother of Willie. In their last meeting Davies was given the decision over Manson and Thursday night's battle will settle the argument.

Willie Davies is only mentioned briefly in the story. It is our bet that the little fellow from Roscoe will be a headliner at Motor Square Garden before the season is over.

Pratt's Drop Kick Play Unequaled in Baseball

In his days as a college star at the University of Alabama, Derrill Pratt, who has played with various American league clubs, won as much fame on the gridiron as diamond, says Billy Evans in one of his reminiscences.

During his "all-star" days, Pratt was noted for his kicking ability. Down South they still talk of his long-distance punts and remarkable field goals.

Football tactics, as a rule, do not mix with baseball, yet one of the most remarkable plays I have ever seen pulled was the result of a neat drop kick on the part of Pratt.

Detroit was playing the Yankees at the Polo grounds. With the bases filled and one down, Bobby Veach hit a grounder through the pitcher's box, which looked good for at least a single. The Tigers were two runs behind at the time and it looked as if the score would surely be tied.

Pratt raced over after the ball. He never reached it with his hands, but in taking his last step the ball came into contact with his right foot. It arched directly into the hands of Roger Peckinpaugh, who easily completed a double play, retiring the side.

Pratt, after kicking the ball, stumbled and did a head-first slide in the general direction of the outfield. He hadn't the slightest idea of what had become of the ball. Not until he got to his feet and saw the Yankees going off the field was he aware that the side had been retired.

Playing Golf Big Help to English Cricket Star

That golf makes a cricketer a better cricketer is a deduction drawn by some followers of outdoor sport after the showing of G. T. S. Stevens in the recent cricket match between Middlesex and Yorkshire at Lord's. Stevens led his team at bat with a total of 114 runs out of 400 scored by Middlesex in one full day's play. "If there can be an extra plea wanted for the excellence of golf, it was the one supplied by G. T. S. Stevens," commented the London Times. "Mr. Stevens made a fine hit—in quick succession one is told, has been concentrating on golf in the last ten days or more, and letting cricket alone. Some of his strokes were on the off side and on four occasions he did not have to move more than two yards after he had felt the ball on the bat."

Bunting Becoming Lost Baseball Art

Bunting, says a baseball observer, is becoming a lost art. This, the observer attributes to the effect of the lively ball and the hit-and-run game and the free hitting, resultant of the lively ball. In the old days, the ... Batters then, he says, were expected to know how to bunt, because the result of too many of the games rested on the ability of the batsman to advance the runner at the particular moment.

Do Away With Mosquito and Malaria Vanishes

It is estimated that the deaths annually from malaria number some two millions, and this figure may probably be multiplied by two or three hundred if we would arrive at the total number of people in the world affected by the complaint.

Malaria is mainly a disease of the tropics, and is caused by a minute parasite in the blood. The parasites in one malaria patient may number anything from one hundred to a thousand millions. In many cases there are more parasites than there are people on the earth, and for ages it was believed that marshes and malaria were in some way connected.

Sir Ronald Ross discovered that it was not the marsh, but the mosquito which bred in the marsh which was the originator of the disease, and he declares that the parasite of malaria is, to the mosquito which carries it, as a dime would be to a hippopotamus!

When a disease-carrying mosquito bites, it injects a saliva in which are the malaria parasites. These are carried into the human circulatory system and so throughout the body.

The cure for malaria is quinine, but the prevention of malaria is the destruction of the mosquito in which it breeds.

INDIANS CLAIM BIG AREA IN TENNESSEE

Start Suit in Court for Five Million Acres.

Charlotte, N. C.—Claims to recover 5,000,000 acres of land embracing much of east Tennessee, and including the city of Chattanooga, has been filed by John M. Taylor, an attorney, who is a fullblood Cherokee Indian, before the Department of the Interior, for the Eastern immigrant Cherokees of Oklahoma and North Carolina, basing his claims upon ancient treaties and the code of North Carolina, relating to the Indians, several thousand of whom are still domiciled in this state. The suits have been filed at Murphy, in Cherokee county, and in Tennessee.

In support of his claim the attorney has filed certified copies of various treaties negotiated with the Indians by the state of North Carolina. The claims are filed in behalf of Taylor and over 400 other "redskins." He has caused to be put into the record in both places where he filed claims a collection of papers on the contents of which he expects to establish his case. His admission to the bar as an attorney has also been filed.

Taylor, according to Representative [illegible] district, at one time resided in Cherokee county, later removing to Oklahoma, in which state the main portion of the Cherokee nation resides. Weaver asserts that Taylor has been in Washington on numerous occasions as a representative of the Cherokee Indians. The attorney insists that the Indians are entitled to interest amounting to $100,000,000.

Copy of Code Filed.

Among the voluminous papers filed in the case is a certified copy of an act from the code of North Carolina of 1783, in which it is recited that "The Cherokee Indians shall have and enjoy that tract of land bounded as follows, to-wit: Beginning on the Tennessee river, where the southern boundary of the state intersects the same nearest the Chickamauga towns; thence up the middle of the Tennessee and Holston rivers to the middle of the French Broad river; thence up the French Broad river (which lines are not to include any islands in said river) to the mouth of the Big Pigeon river; thence up the same to the head thereof; thence along the dividing ridge between the waters of the Pigeon and Tuckashah rivers to the southern boundary of the state, and the lands contained in the aforesaid bounds shall be reserved to the said Cherokee Indians and their nation forever, anything hereinbefore to the contrary notwithstanding."

Includes Chattanooga.

The "Chickamauga towns" referred to in the act were in the vicinity of what is now the city of Chattanooga, and the territory involved will include practically all of the area of that Tennessee metropolis. Taylor also sets up claim to 640 acres which he asserts lie in the Moccasin bend.

The attorney states further that under the act passed by the recent congress, Indians are allowed to bring suit in the Court of Claims for the recovery of Indian reserves. It is understood that Taylor, under this provision, intends bringing suit for the entire reservation as set out in the North Carolina act, which granted the 5,000,000-acre tract to the Cherokees, the establishment of whose claims thereto were fixed by later treaties.

The state of Tennessee was at one time a part of North Carolina, and Taylor will attempt to show that the original act, granting territory embraced in the bounds of that commonwealth, was never repealed. There is also on record a memorandum to this effect:

"Say to our full-blood people that they must raise plenty of expense money."

Shed Moose Horns Afford Hunter Living

Seattle, Wash.—A strange consignment arrived here from Seward. It was a shipment of moose antlers billed to a knife handle and bone novelty factory in Tacoma. The shipment represented two months' work of Mose Harris, who for years has tramped over the moose meadows of Kenai peninsula gathering the old horns dropped by the moose during the shedding process in February.

Harris says the antlers, although of the hardest bone material, must be gathered from the damp forests soon after they are left by the animals. In less than a year they would return to dust, so rapid is the decay in the swampy country. Once safely in a dry factory the bone is indestructible. From the broad smooth antlers, combs, handles and dice are cut. There is a growing market for the bone articles while scrap bone is shipped to China and Japan.

New Verdi Opera Found in Opera House Library

Budapest.—The library of the Budapest opera house has unexpectedly yielded a hitherto unknown opera by Giuseppe Verdi, entitled "The Robbers." The libretto is none other than Freidrich Schiller's famous drama of the same name.

It appears that Verdi composed a cycle of operas which have Schiller dramas for their texts. The cycle included "Don Carlos," "The Maid of Orleans," "The Robbers" and "Cabal and Love." The discovery of "The Robbers" will, it is believed, lead to the musical production of the whole cycle in the near future.

U. S. CITIZENS IN PALESTINE FAVORED

Status to Remain Until Ratification of Mandate.

Jerusalem.—Citizens of the United States living in Palestine are accorded privileges over and above those of citizens and subjects of states who are members of the League of Nations.

This is true now pending American ratification of the British mandate for Palestine, but will probably cease to be the case after the United States government will have signed the convention recognizing the mandate.

The convention, it is believed, will secure for Americans in Palestine the same rights as fall to subjects of states who are league members, but no more.

The status of Americans in Palestine will then probably be the same as in Syria, to the French mandate for which United States was reported recently to have agreed.

For the present Americans here enjoy the rights of capitulations which, before the dismemberment of the Turkish empire, all great powers insisted on maintaining for their citizens. America has not renounced its capitulatory rights in Palestine, and [illegible] holding court and trying cases between American residents.

The position of the American consular court in Jerusalem is a little vague, because it runs parallel with the British system of justice now in force.

The British government, however, is not known to have raised any objection to the existence of the consular court. The Palestine authorities have even gone out of their way to effect judgments made by the consular court. An American sentenced to prison by the consular court may be locked up in a Palestine jail.

United States Consul Oscar S. Heizer, having received no instructions to the contrary, continues to sit in judgment over American residents who get into trouble, but he is not sure how long this condition will continue.

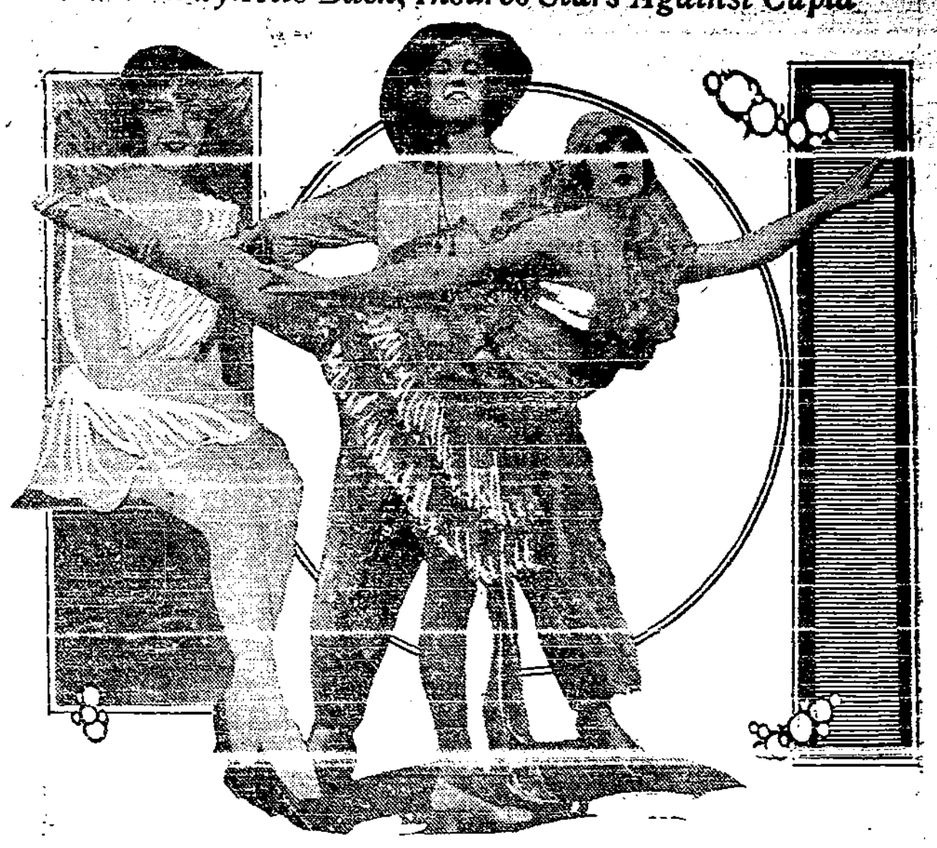
Wind Robs Man of Three $100 Bills

San Francisco.—The mischievous wind that sprang up recently to swoop down on Market street, flapping the skirts of the flappers cost William Wilson of No. 1145 Howard street $300.

As Wilson was taking out his wallet to buy a Sunday paper the rapacious, predatory zephyr caught three $100 bills and carried them down the street. Wilson leaped to catch his flying money, but the gust carried them around a corner and, although he spent most of his morning searching the streets, aided by a good-sized crowd, he was unable to recover the bills.

Broadway Hits Back, Insures Stars Against Cupid



At last the New York theatrical managers are hitting back at Daniel Cupid, who has cost them large sums by luring into matrimony young women trained at great expense for dancing and feature roles. The managers are insuring their star revue performers against marriage. Florenz Ziegfeld led the way when he obtained a policy which will reimburse him if Ruth Fellows and Helen Sheldon, shown at the right, marry within three years. Ned Wayburn followed by insuring Hilda Ferguson (left) against the wiles of Cupid for $50,000. Other managers are expected to take the same step.

LESSON NO. 7

LIGHTING THE BEDROOMS

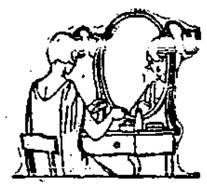
There are three or four different purposes for which we may need lighting in a bedroom. At times we need a soft flood of light all over the room; when dressing, we need proper lighting of the mirror; a boudoir lamp on a small table near the head of the bed, or a bracket lamp on the bed itself serves as a night light; and if the room be a large one, there may be need for a floor lamp beside a comfortable chair for reading.

THE CEILING FIXTURE

The fixture that is selected for the center of the ceiling should provide enough general lighting all over the room for ordinary use of the room. To protect the eyes, it must be shaded in such a way that the eyes of a person lying in bed cannot be strained by the bulb which furnishes the light. If a shade is used which is open at the bottom, the opening should be narrow. A total of from 50 to 100 watts will give plenty of light in this fixture.

LIGHTING THE MIRROR

We see objects by the light that falls on them and is reflected to the eye. Thus, when we look in a mirror, and see a reflection of our face, what has happened is this: the light falls upon our face which reflects a part of the light to the mirror; the mirror, in turn, reflects a part of the light back to our eye, and we have seen an image of our own face.



Now it is easy to understand why it is more important to light the face itself instead of lighting the mirror. To do this, the bulb or light source ought to be in front of the face. And since the face is not a flat surface it can be best lighted from two directions, so that the light from one side will light up the shadows cast from the features of the face by the light from the other side.

The best lighting, then, is from two bracket fixtures on the walls, one at each side of the mirror. These fixtures are just at the level of the eye, and the light from them will cause eye-strain unless we are careful to have them well shaded for protection against glare. The bulbs in these bracket fixtures may be from 25 to 50 watts.

In some rooms where there is not enough wall space at each side of the mirror on which to put bracket fixtures, we may use a pair of portable candlesticks on the dresser itself, or a special sort of bracket which is made to fasten at each side of the mirror itself. Or we may have a single fixture hung from the ceiling over the center of the dresser, the bottom of which is just above the head of a person using the mirror.

If portable candlesticks are used, or if bracket fixtures are fastened to the mirror, we must not forget a convenience outlet, which may well be of the double or duplex type mounted in the wall 36 inches above the floor. This also makes it easy to attach a curling iron or other appliance. A convenience outlet will also be needed near the head of the bed for a boudoir lamp in which a 25-watt bulb will give plenty of light.

SERVANTS' ROOMS

Good lighting for servants' rooms may be provided from a ceiling fixture in which a 50-watt bulb is used with a suitable shade and a bracket fixture on the wall with a shaded 25 or 50-watt bulb. If the room is very small, the ceiling fixture may not be needed, and a pair of bracket fixtures may be used.

A small portable table lamp will do much to make the room more comfortable, but it is not essential. Whether it is used or not, a convenience outlet may be needed for electric appliances.

"POLITICAL" DANCING.

The news from Europe that Isadora Duncan and Michael Bordkin, formerly associate dancers, are no longer on speaking terms, is in itself of no importance, but the reported cause of the rupture is interesting. It seems that Miss Duncan now holds that dancing is " a form of political expression," while Bordkin, not lacking in good sense, insists that it is nothing of the sort. Apparently she is eager to dance in the interests of Bolsheism, but Bordkin, whose grey matter seems to be still unclouded, fails to see how the thing can be done and would even prefer not to try. "Bolshevik agents will count the house wherever I go," he bitterly complains. "They will check up my figures and profits. Isadora Duncan approves of this. he can't dance and uses politics as an excuse to appear on the stage." Miss Duncan, on the other hand, though an American, seems to be an enthusiastic supporter of the plan of "political" dancing profitable in converts as well as in cash. She has formally announced that "all her dancing was a form of political expression," and expects "by stalking about the stage in a red veil to a Stravinsky rhythm to convert the world to Communism."

Let Isadore go to it. As the old proverb says, answer not the fool according to his folly. She can as readily talk politics with the uplifting of her feet and bodily swayings as do some of the other things she was b'lled to do—and did not do. To a certain extent emotions can be indicated by gesture and facial expression while the feet keep pace with a musical rythm, but the pretense that dancing can unfold a long and intricate story (let alone present a political argument!) is and has been nothing but pure fake.

He Left Hastily

Two years ago I hiked over the Dixie highway from central Georgia to Indianapolis, writes a correspondent. While passing through the mountains of Tennessee I espied a bush, well laden with ripe berries, growing by the side of the road. Of course I stopped and began to pick and eat them. "B-z-z-z," and I certainly moved away from there in a hurry, because a rattlesnake was warning me that I was encroaching on its property.

Well, How About It?

He was a thoughtful boy. "Injustice!" he exclaimed, "the world is full of it even for a youth of twelve." "How is that?" asked an elderly companion. EX-KAISER IS PEEVED AT HIS ELDEST SON

Activity in Political Circles Annoys Father.

Doorn.—Life at the Chateau of Doorn has become, particularly during the last few months, extremely animated.

Every day, almost, sees the arrival of fine automobiles bringing princes, ex-ambassadors, former ministers and generals who had served under the old monarchial regime in Germany.

Some of the visitors leave after a day or two, but others prolong their stay, residing for the time being in expensive "pensions," where they make an ostentatious display of their war decorations, and pay almost daily visits in full dress uniform to the ex-kaiser.

The former emperor appears to be doing everything possible to entertain and attract to himself the sympathies of all German monarchist and military circles. His consort, Hermine, who burns with the desire and hope of one day becoming empress of Germany, seconds her husband in these efforts in the most active manner, and with all the grace at her command, by holding grand receptions and entertainments.

All these activities have for their principal object, according to what is [illegible] to counteract similar ambitious projects entertained by the former crown prince. It is even said that the rivalry between father and son has developed recently into a state of latent warfare, pursued mercilessly on both sides.

The activity displayed since his return to Germany by the former crown prince in political circles, especially among the nationalists and monarchists and the younger generation of militarists, rumors of which reach the ex-kaiser from Berlin, serve to render the latter furious against his son. The prince, on his side, is said to show but little of either respect or admiration for the personages of the old regime and its time-honored traditions.

The ex-crown prince would seem to be desirous of breaking definitely with the ideas and personages of the past, and even to be willing to find himself at the head of a regime purely democratic, provided that it was at the same time nationalist. The former emperor, on the contrary, clings desperately to the ideas and persons of the past, and shows himself a bitter and unchangeable enemy to all democratic sentiments.

Republican Women Leaders Drawing Plans For Getting Out A Record Vote For Coolidge And Dawes In November

After women secured the long-denied right of suffrage, there were one who thought they would organize in a great group and use their power as an independent unit. The belief was unfounded. Experience has shown that the new power is being exercised through the existing political parties.

The picture above shows a group of prominent Republican women leaders conferring in New York headquarters of the Republican National Committee. Seated at the end of the table is Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, of Kentucky, Vice-Chairman of the Republican National Committee, who is in command of the activities of the army of women throughout the United States working for the success of President Coolidge and Gen. Dawes.

With but one exception, all of these women political leaders are members for their states of the Republican National Committee. Seated at the table, farthest away from Mrs. Hert, is Mrs. J. G. M. Glessner, representing New Hampshire, vice-president of the Society of Colonial Dames in her state. She was state chairman of ways and means in the Harding-Coolidge campaign four years ago.

Seated next to her is Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, of Massachusetts. Mrs. Bird was president of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association when the suffrage amendment to the Constitution was passed. She then organized the Republican women of her state and was chairman of the women's division of the Republican State Committee throughout the 1920 campaign. President Harding appointed her to represent the eastern states on the advisory council during the Conference for the Limitations of Armaments. She founded the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts and was its first president.

Next to Mrs. Bird is Mrs. Charles Steedman of Rhode Island, a daughter of Henry Lippitt, governor of Rhode Island from 1875 to 1877. She headed the American Red Cross in Providence during the World War, and was a member of the first Republican Women's State Committee. Mrs. Steedman is a member of the Society of Colonial Dames.

Seated on the other side of Mrs. Hert is Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, the daughter of Paul Morton, Secretary of the Navy in the Roosevelt cabinet, and wife of the well known banker of New York. Mrs. Sabin is president of the Women's National Republican Club of New York City, and was a delegate-at-large to the convention which named Coolidge and Dawes.

Standing in front of the pillar is Mrs. J. B. Russ, of Connecticut, president of the Connecticut unit of Coolidge Women's Clubs of America. Standing immediately behind Mrs. Hert is Mrs. W. Bladen Lowndes, of Maryland. She was chairman of the Liberty Loan and War Savings Committee of Howard County and a member of the National Council of Defense during the war. She was chairman also of the War Savings Campaign in Baltimore, which is her home. Her husband is a son of the late Governor Lloyd Lowndes of Maryland. Behind Mrs. Sabin stands Mrs. Charlotte Ferrar of New York City, Republican woman leader of the Tenth Assembly District. She is now and was four years ago an active worker at New York City headquarters. She is the only one of those pictured above who is not a National Committeewoman.

Savings Deposits

There are many people who delay the opening of a Savings Account because they feel that a small deposit will not be welcome and that it is better to wait until they have accumulated a considerable sum. Too often they keep on waiting.

The First National Bank wants you to know that we welcome Savings deposits in any amount from $1.00 upwards and that the size of the account does not matter so much. The REGULARITY with which you save means more to us—and to you—than the amount deposited.

Legend of Pan's Death

It was currently believed among the early Christians that at the time of the crucifixion of Christ a loud voice was heard throughout the isles of Greece, proclaiming that the great Pan was dead and that the rule of the Olympian gods was at an end.

"Plutarch is the first to tell the story that in the reign of Tiberius one Thamus, a pilot, when steering near the islands of Paxae, was commanded by a loud voice to proclaim that 'the great Pan is dead.' As soon as he reached Palodes he cried the news aloud from the poop of his ship, whereupon was heard a great noise of lamentation, as of nature itself expressing its grief. The coincidence of this story with the birth or crucifixion of Christ gave occasion to an explanation that it marked the end of the old world and the beginning of the new when the old oracles became dumb. Rabelais has the story, there is a well-known allusion to it in Milton's "Ode on the Nativity," and it has been finely treated by Schiller and Mrs. Browning."—Chambers' Encyclopedia.

"Ah, sir, permit me ze honor of giving you my felicitations, and to your talented family likewise. Ze music it ees a beautiful gift, and I hope to have ze honor of harking some day to your pairformance."

"Pardon, m'sieur," said the mystified mayor, "you are mistaken. I know nothing whatever of music."

"Ah, but zat ees vat you call your hang-back—you are modest. I have hear eet several couples of times zat your wife plays ze first violin, and zat you plays ze second fiddle to her."

Getting Around Law

Beggary here is forbidden by law—but it doesn't prevent it. Your London mendicant provides himself with a half dozen moth-eaten shoelaces or with three boxes of sulphurless matches and becomes a salesman. The police respect him as a salesman, although people don't buy. They give alms and pass on.

"Gillie's" Duties

A "gillie" is a Highland attendant, a boy page, or menial; an outdoor servant, especially one in attendance on persons engaged in hunting or traveling. Formerly in Scotland the chief duty of a servant called a gillie whitefoot or gillie webfoot was to carry his master over brooks or watery places.

Exercise for Tired Eyes

If She Had Knowed

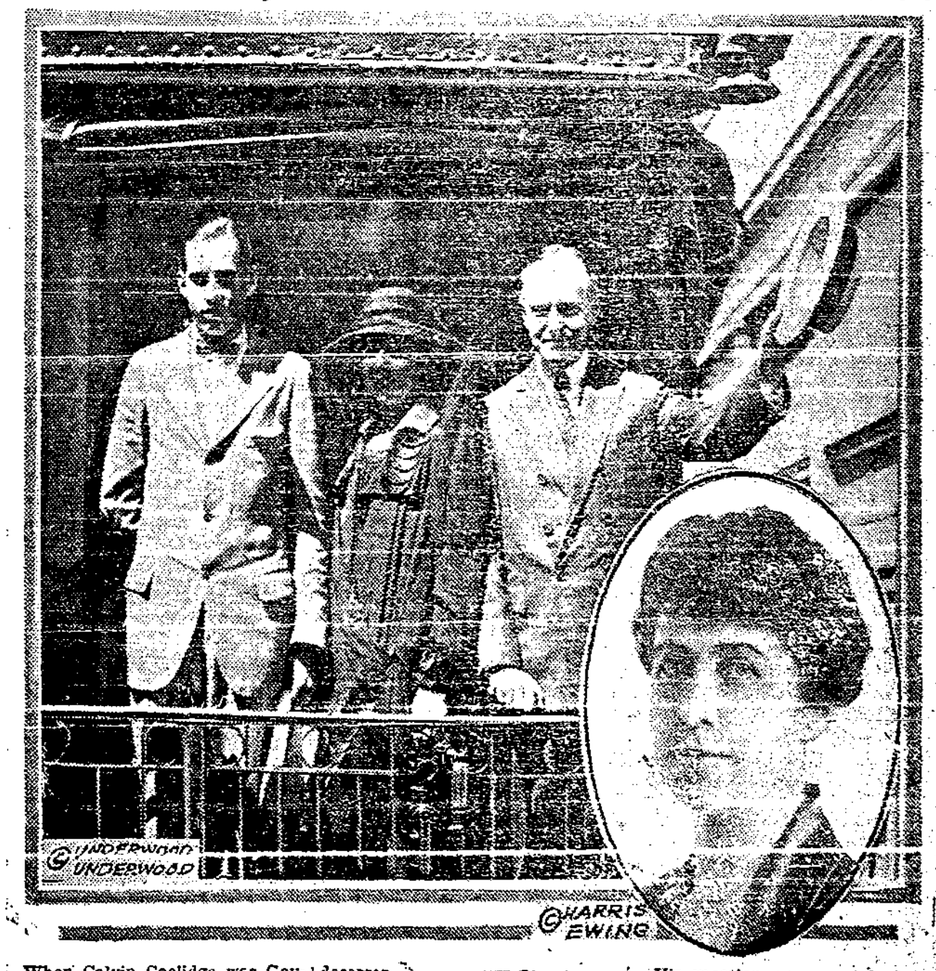
"Do The Day's Work" Has Been Motto Of Calvin Coolidge During His Whole Career; He Sticks Close To His Job



When Calvin Coolidge was Governor of Massachusetts one of his utterances often since quoted, was "Do the day's work." Since the tragic death of President Harding, Mr. Coolidge has given the country and the whole world an example of practicing what he preaches. He has done the day's work every day, even if he had to work far into the night to do it.

The only vacation the President has had this year was a short trip to his native village of Plymouth, Vermont, where he visited his father. The arduous business of being President of the greatest country in the world makes necessary some rest and relaxation, a change from the terrific grind that was mostly responsible for the death of President Coolidge's predecessor.

The President has stated publicly that the business of being President will take too much of his time to permit of making a campaign [illegible] Committee under the leadership of William M. Butler of Massachusetts will do that. Mr. Coolidge, except for his brief visit to Vermont, is staying on the job in Washington, doing the day's work.

The picture above shows the President and Mrs. Coolidge, with their son John, as they left Washington for the short respite from work and the heat of a Washington summer. The President was snapped by the photographer just as he was waving a farewell to the crowd gathered at the station to see him off.

His vacation was spent in hard work, but work of another sort. Much of the time he wore overalls. He gets his exercise with a plow instead of a set of golf sticks. He pitchfork than a polo pony.

Mrs. Coolidge's face is shaded by her hat in the picture taken with her distinguished husband and her son. The other picture gives an idea of the attractive First Lady of the Land, whose charm and tact have captivated Washington. Before her marriage she was Miss Grace Anna Goodhue, of Northampton. She married Calvin Coolidge October 4, 1905, when he was serving [illegible] Northampton.

Mark Twain's Reason for Not Asking Loan

Dr. Clarence C. Rice of New York, who introduced Mark Twain to H. H. Rogers in 1894, when the fortunes of the writer had failed, and thus got the American humorist back on his feet financially, has told of his experiences with Mark Twain as a patient, says a writer in the Mentor.

According to Doctor Rice, Mark Twain was never seriously ill till the final illness. Doctor Rice writes: "Mark Twain was never ill—just colds. I would take his temperature occasionally, but he generally insisted that is was only a bluff and that the thermometer was put in his mouth to keep him from talking. He told me that old yarn of the patient who obtained a prescription from his physician and, after looking at the paper, asked how much the medicine would cost. When the doctor told him that it would cost about $2 the patient requested the physician to loan him the $2. The indignant doctor finally said: 'Here are the $2; give me the prescription. I want to make an alteration. I'm scratching out the nerve tonic; you won't need that.' Mark Twain observed: 'I have always admired that man. That was a noble piece of graft. I have thought of trying the game on you, but I've never seen the time when I thought you had the $2.'"

Son Took the Wind Out of Dad's Sails

A shrewd old Yankee who had accumulated a fortune by strict economy, noticed his son had spent carfare to go a few blocks and deemed the expense a foolish one. That evening after dinner he called his son into the library, saying he wished to speak with him. "But first," he said, "I will turn down the light; we can talk just as well in the dark and it will save gas." As he went on explaining the value of economy he heard a fumbling and shuffling from the direction of his son's chair. Stopping his lecture he inquired: "Sam, what are you doing?"

"Father," came from the darkness, "I can hear just as well without 'em, so while we are sitting here in the dark I'm taking off my trousers to save 'em."

For the rest of the evening economics were not discussed.—Boston Transcript.

Doll's House for Czar

When a young man of twenty-four, Peter the Great of Russia went to Holland. He was working at different jobs so as to be better fitted to become ruler of Russia. In Utrecht he saw a miniature doll's house, furnished down to the minutest detail. In the library were paintings two inches square. Cabinets were filled with thumb-high porcelains from Japan. Special carpets were manufactured for this house, and the linen was woven in Flanders.

Peter the Great took a great fancy to this tiny palace and offered any price for one like it. The builder, a retired merchant, would not accept money for his handiwork, but offered to make one as a gift to the young czar. The Illiputian mansion, completed after 25 years of labor, is now in the royal museum, Amsterdam, says Mentor Magazine.

Got Her Clock Back

In "My Garden of Memory," Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, the famous authoress, tells a story of the time when she was the guest of some friends, and was kept from sleeping by the ticking of a clock in her bedroom. Finally, she had to place the clock among some blankets in a drawer. Leaving early next morning, she forgot to tell the maid about the clock, writes Puck in London Tit-Bits.

Three months afterward, in Germany she remembered it. She would have cabled, but it seemed bizarre to say, after an interval of many months: "Clock buried in guest room between blankets in bottom drawer. Impossible to sleep with it! Forgive!"

Instead, she wrote, and by reply came word from her former hostess that her new chambermaid had searched for and recovered the clock.

ENGLAND AGOG OVER ELECTION IN THIS COUNTRY

London, Oct. 20—Although the suddenessess and bitterness to the domestic election has largely distracted British interest in the United States campaign, nevertheless there is sufficient similarity in the issues to intensify the interest as soon as the domestic political fate is known October 29.

Business interests are watching the possibility of tariff reduction, although there is no reason to hope seriously a democratic or independent victory would lead to early revision, but would doubtless pass a tariff bill designed to benefit farming class, which would raise the price of wheat for British consumers. Thus there is little prospect of benefit seen on that score.

Growth of the independent movement in the United States has surprised closé followers of world politics, while casual readers express astonishment at the "sweep of radicalism in America," which is regarded as the world's most prosperous country.

Economists contend that unemployment and high taxation in great Britain justified radical outbursts here, but except for a general world wide politial swing to the left, there is little apparent reason for radicalism in the United States at present, unless Amerians are convinced the highest point in prosperity has been reached and are desirous of avoiding reaction.

The Manchester Guardian today declares labor successess in 1923 and 1924 have deeply impressed America, especially the continuous evidence that British labor and Bolshevism are as far apart as the two poles. Moreover, the laborite record in office has quieted widespread fears concerning their doctrine, thereby stimulating American third party movement and weakening Coolidge's ause.

The average Britisher classifies Coolidge with Baldwin; Davis with Asquith; La Follette with MacDonald while Lloyd Geirge is comparable to the late Roosevelt.

While there is a strong personal liking for Davis here, owing to his popularity during his term as American Ambassador at St. James, Coolidge, is accorded more respect, first as president, second as a man who took office owing to Harding's death—which produces a sympathetic feeling he deserves another chance to formulate his own policies.

La Follette's policies are appreciated very hazily, but at least there is much curiosity as to his fate, especially if MacDonald is overthrown. The coming election marks a serious setback of radicalism in "the most promising country," hence observers see little hope of radicalism in "prosperous United tates." It is even predicted that MacDonald's defeat will seriously affect LaFollette's chances.
